BANGKOK (AP). - Four Arab terrorists freed six Israeli hostages at Bangkok airport this morning, handed their weapons to a Thai officer and boarded a special Thai International direct flight for Cairo.

By 2 a.m. Israel time the hostages had met with Ambassador Rehavam Amir and he was able to report to the Cabinet in Tel Aviv that they were all alive and well. The Prime Minister's office said they were released at 1.30 a.m. (6.30 a.m. in Bangkok).

The terrorists took two top Thai officials on the plane — Deputy Foreign Minister Chatichai Chunhawan and Chief of Staff Air Marshal Dawee Chulasapaya - and Egyptian Ambassador Mustafa el-Essawy. There were six other Thais on the plane - presumably including members of the aircraft's crew. Prime Minister Golda Meir and Foreign Minister

Weiner allegedly began taking aim at the two with his gun, despite warnings from one of them that this was dangerous. While the gun was trained on Wiesel it went off, pumping two bullets into the youth's chest. Wiesel was taken to Afula hospital, where he died of his wounds on December 2. Police said a lone gunman walked up and shot the admiral three times in the back, then fied through a parking lot. Berisso, 59, died on the operating table at a nearby hospital, police said. They said the gunman shot Berisso as he was loading packages into the trunk of his car. Police said they suspected a leftist extremist organization was responsible. The patrols have yed very successful in Tel Aviv and the irt, issued by the National Council for the vention of Accidents, may speed up their med extension to Jerusalem.

as City Council, which came in for severe cism in the report, will take it up at its meeting. Announcing this, the municipal esman said that "the writer does not menthe basic reason for accidents, namely the ficient education of drivers and pedestrians e report was compiled over two months by d Hartom, a young economist and statis-i. Its stated aim is: "surveying the opera-of the bodies chiefly responsible for road y; locating the main trouble spots; and sting possible improvements."

Hartom says that in 1971 52 persons filled on Jerusalem's roads, 137 people ined severe injuries and about 1,100 were y injured. He says that traffic conditions become worse during recent years due to apid expansion of the city, and that they feely to become worse still. Mr. Hartom and compare conditions in Jerusalem with in the rest of the country.

action When legal action is taken, on the other hand, fines are ridiculously light, the report says. It recommends that the public exert pressure on the police and the municipality. In extreme cases citizens should apply to the courts for restraining orders against offending

More inspectors

The municipal spokesman, in his reaction to the report, says that in recent years the city has doubled its corps of building inspectors. Their primary task at the moment is checking illegal building. Four months ago the city de-tailed a special group of inspectors to check on safety hazards. It is planned to expand this unit, the spokesman adds.

The Safety Council's report next deals with the complicated question of which official bodies are responsible for what action taken on the road. It says that overlapping authority and lack of clarity regarding areas of respon-sibility is a cardinal problem.

By way of example, Mr. Hartom says that a contractor planning to do excavations ex-tending onto the public roadway requires per-mits from no less than seven agencies. These are: The Department for the Beautification of the City; the Communications Ministry; the Electric Corporation; the Water Department; the Municipal Traffic Department; the Police Traffic Department and the Road Controller's office.

There is much unnecessary red-tape in obtaining all these permits. In some instances one permit has expired by the time another is finally received. There is distrust between the various departments together with a tendency to shift responsibility from one agency to the other.

Poor supervision

Since cooperation is so poor, supervision of the execution of contractors' work is "beneath all criticism," the report says.

The report continues that most funds for traffic safety come from the Transport Ministry and that Jerosalem has recently been getting a bigger share IL2m. in 1972 com-pared with only IL600,000 in 1971. Mr. Hartom points out, however, that money is not everything. If a local authority does not have funds, that money may be assigned to another district.

(Weiss)

The report claims that Jarusalem's city engineering department is short of three traffic gineering department is short of three traffic engineers — yet is reluctant to accept help of trained manpower offered by the Transport Ministry. The City Engineer's traffic depart-ment comes in the severe criticism for its handling of pedestrian crosswalks. Although crosswalks have to be approved by the Con-troller of Road Transport, the report charges that the city engineering department installed crosswalks in dangerous locations without such approval and even against the Controller's approval and even against the Controller's instructions. Examples are crossings on the Ramallah Road in Elast Jerusalem.

(Next to West Jerusalem's Jaffa Road and Sderot Herzi - which had no fatalities --Ramallah Road had the city's worst accident record in 1971, with 24 accidents, three persons killed and nine severely injured.)

Painting of crosswalks

The report says that many crosswalks are poorly maintained. The method of hand-paint-ing the crossings is described as old-fashioned and ineffective. City engineering department staffers claim that walks are repainted four times a year and that it is planned to acquire modern spray-painting equipment.

The report scores the fact that white road markings which have been changed or can-celled remain to mislead traffic until they are erased by the tyres of passing cars. Suitable machinery for removing such markings should be bought, it says. Delays in painting centre lanes on re-asphalted roads is another complaint.

The municipal department for beautifying the city is responsible for such work as trimming trees which obstruct road signs and removing dangerous of slicks and other obstruction from roadways. It gets credit for doing some good work but poor marks for removing obstacles from the road itself. One glaring example is the tool shed and build-ing materials which a contractor putting up a large building in Rehov Shammai has left in the road for months. The department is also criticized for not sending out crews for urgent night jobs.

The Public Works Department and the Communications Ministry get generally high marks for observing safety precautions.

In conclusion the report says that those departments in the Jerusalem Municipality dealing with road safety have not yet adapted to the city's new status and recent expansion. Better coordination, streamlining of procedures and stricter supervision of contractors are

SHADOW OF CABINET

By SHALOM COHEN

THE idea of creating a "Shadow Cabinet" — sug-gested by Ezer at the Herut convention — is not new. It already exists. We've had one for years. And we don't mean the famous kitchen cabinet. This Shadow Cabinet it is true is a shadowy and elusive in-stitution, but it really exists, none the less. Where it convenes, few know. What we do know is that this Shadow Cabinet has a heavy agenda, consisting exclusively and entirely of "calls."

"caits." Let's say that one day, any day, a Minister — of the or-dinary Cabinet, the one that meets in Jerusalem on Sun-days — issues a "call," say a call against inflation. Another Minister, of the same Cabinet, might issue an "impassioned call for measures against road deaths," or let's say, cleaner buses. Lots of issuing goes on deaths," or let's say, cleaner buses. Lots of issuing goes on all over the place; the same time another might up and issue a call for relief from bureaucratic red-tape — an example given merely by way of filmstration of Mustration.

What happens to these calls and to whom are they sent out? To the Shadow Cabinet -- where else? Each call, once issued, takes off, so to speak, out into the atmos-phere, turns and twists, ad-justs its course by some blind-fixing derice howers in midflying device, hovers in mid-air, and gently lands Some-where in Israel, where the Shadow Cabinet sits in continuous session. At times, the traffic can be very heavy, with calls bumper to bumper.

U.F.O.s

It's kept quiet, but there have even been Shadow Cabinet crises. Rare, but it happened when once a call in-adventently got mixed up with the other Cabinet's agenda, and Ministers innocently began dealing with it. Providentially, the mishap righted itself, and in the end the original call multiplied itself, fission-wise, into three separate calls.

The system, which has been compared to UFO's - unidentified flying objects — is a $w \circ n d \in r$ of self-regulation, with a margin of error vir-tually nil Lets imagine Minister X in action, issuing a call from some public rostrum. The next morning, in his Min-istry, we see an official, newspaper in hand, proceeding with mincing steps to his mincing steps to his im-mediate superior's office. "The boss has called for improveimments, in unmistakable terms; what do we do?" No answer from busy superior. Official, rapidly losing face, murmurs, "...file it?" Explosion from superior, normally a sociable human being, and hasty re-treat by red-faced official who know the way. The Shadow Cabinet has a tremendous capacity, can deal with the greatest variety and range of calls, is bom-barded with problems most problematical. (All calls, whe-ther casual, burning, impas-sioned, reiterated, vigorously issued, firm or fervent, travel at the same velocity.) There are seasons when calls blaze like fireworks displays, and there is little coordination, causing real pressure on the causing real pressure on the Shadow Cabinet. A routine agenda of calls can read like this: for better labour relations, town-planning, better Jewish, Zionist, scientific, humanistic, and universal educa-tion in the schools; for civi-lized taxi services, simplified immigrant absorption, bigger families, cheaper housing, clean streets, better TV programmes, for modest living, original civic thinking, nicer weather, peace and good borders. session. We hear: "... point of order; the agenda says 'some new regu-lations' — what's this got to do with the areas and bor-ders?" Silence, and then a faint voice: "... a manner of speaking; since we're all here, after all... maybe we could have..." Another voice: "... a full-scale debate — that's what they call it..." Another: "... a little chat, informal like "... a little chat, informal, like to get a rounded picture... what Rabin thinks, Sadat told ... Hussein got married..."

Shortages in Haifa Jerusalent Post Reporter

HAIFA. - Shortages of various goods here, including clothing, shoes, cleansing materials and some foods, are being blamed on manufacturers who intend to put up prices.

The secretary of the Retailers Association told The Jerusalem Post that suppliers are not deliv-ering orders. The retailers believe that the suppliers are holding back their wares until they raise prices, probably in January.

As eggs are also short now, and the kerosene delivery men have been unable to cope with the increased demand for heating during the cold wave, "a general atmosphere of shortages has been created. This makes it con-venient to raise prices," the Association secretary noted.

HAIFA. - The port management has agreed to grant permanency to an additional 54 temporary dockers during 1973. They will be given permanency in addition to the 27 men being taken on this month.

This was agreed upon by the management and the Labour Council in negotiations following last week's four day strike by the 450 temporaries who all demanded permanency.

The 54 men are to be taken on in two groups of 27 each, in six month intervals. The wages and social benefits for the remaining men are to be negotiated after the permanent dockers sign their new labour contract with the Ports Authority.

THREATENS PARK

NESHER QUARRY

By YA'ACOV ABDON Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. - The infant 84,000 dunam national park on Mount Carmel may be fighting for its life. The Nesher Portland Cement Co. is pressing hard for a permit to tear a 2,300 dunam hole Into the park (near the highway on the ridge) between the roads leading to Bett Oren and down to Nesher.

The company says it needs the site to quarry stone for future cement manufacture. The present site lower down will be exhausted in another four years. In the next few decades a quarry, it is predicted, will inflict a widely visible scar on the moun-tainside and will gradually low-er it from 528 to 460 metres. Unless the permit is granted, the company argues, raw mate-rial will have to be brought by truck from as far away as Shfar Am, or the entire factory will have to be shifted there. Elther of the two alternatives will lead to an increase in the price of cement. Nesher promises to minimize the disfigurement of the landscape and to "rehabili-tate" it to the best of its ability. There has been no public pro-

The park was finally proclaimed an inviolable national abrine last year, after consider-able legal, financial and administrative difficulties were cleared away. The Government has allocated IL20m. to compensate the owners of plots expropriat-ed inside the park area.

One of the difficulties objectors to the Nesher Quarry foresee is that if expropriated private plots land were turned over to Nesher, the former owners would certainly take legal action for being deprived of them under false pretences.

The question is pending before a committee of five ministers. The National Planning Council (attached to the Interior Ministry) has come out strongly in favour of keeping the national park intact.

paper goes to press. Coming in the wake of the re-cent U.N. decision not to deal with terror this year, the attack was a grim reminder of present-day reality and the failure to deal with this menace effectively.

It was not a coincidence that Bangkok was chosen as the target. Thailand and Israel main-tain very cordial relations; Bangkok is the site of various international organizations with which Israel is connected; it is also an important Israeli diplomatic mission situated, as it were, in the heart of South-East were, in the neart of South-East Asia. The improvement of rela-tions between Israel and Thai-land, Cambodia and South Viet-nam did not escape the eyes of the terrorists.

These groups are trying despersiely to prove that they are still active and capable of mounting operations. They want to sour relations between Israel to sour relations between Israel and the Asian nations, telling the latter, in effect, that ties with Israel can invite trouble. They have chosen a capital far away from Israel, so that no aid can easily be sped there for a rescue attempt. They have, in the process, embarrassed the new That regime on a day of national celebration and rejoicing.

that surrender to terror only duties.

THE terrorist attack on the leads to other, more desperate Israel Embassy in Bangkok and dangerous raids. The Israel and the seizure of hostages, has government cannot deviate from but on giving them safe con-duct out of Bangkok. Israel ap-preciates the manner in which the Thai government has conducted the negotiations.

> Unlike the role played by Cairo when 11 Israeli athletes were kid-napped and murdered in Munich last September, when Sadat and Sidki refused Chancellor Brandt's Sidki refused Chancellor Brandi's request to help, the Egyptian Ambassador in Bangkok offered his good services and apparent-ly mediated between the Thai authorities and the terrorists. It is likely that Egypt wants to purchase some good will in order to make up for its shameful behaviour during the Munich measure massacre.

Whatever the outcome of the Bangkok attack, serious ques-tions will be raised in Israel concerning the protection of our embassies, and especially the smaller ones in distant capitals. It is time for strict security measures in all our embassies and other offices, whatever the technical difficulties. The relative ease with which the terrorists seem to have penetrated our Bangkok embassy shows that the precautions were insufficient. It should be clear by now that Israeli personnel are needed to identify terrorists in unexpected guises. Now that diplomats have

The Black September gang become front-line soldiers it is has challenged the Israel gov perhaps time to take some sol-ernment to practise what it has diers out of the front lines and been telling other governments, send them on diplomatic security

IN today's world of cant and double-talk, there is no lack or self-appointed moralists to cluck disapprovingly over our dialities of terrorists and to point kindly to the history of Jewish terrorism, implying not so coyly, "After all, you began it..." The French press is way ahead on this tack, so perhaps we should do a bit of digging up past French history. Let us get right down to the level of the most famous double-cross in French history - no, not de Gaulle's double cross of Lorraine in Algeria - the one that happened all of four and a half centuries ago when the country of Saint Louis of the Crusades (King Louis XI of France), the country that was already then the traditional protector of the Holy Places in the Levant, formed an alliance with the Sublime Porte for the exalted purpose of saving European equilibrium. The Turks under Suleiman the First (1520-1596), Suleiman the Magnificant-the one that built our own Old City walls-reach-ed the apogee of their power in the Elastern Mediterrancan and on the Continent of Europe. Not only magnificent, but magnanimous and statesmanliks, Suleiman had consented to grant a treaty to the great maritime power of Venice. This Treaty guaranteed freedom of commerce, safety for negotiators (no mean consideration, then as now), ex-tradition of criminals, return of fugitive slaves to Venice (unless they had "taken the turban" in the meantime) and some 30 other similar fine provisions. Vene-tians were exempted from pay-ing the generous Turks an indi-vidual poli-tax, in return for which concession their government agreed to pay two an-nual tributes, one of 10,000 ducats on its own account and one of a mere 500 ducats for Cyprus (and Xantha).

But when the turn came for the Hungarians to sign on the dotted line, they were not so ready us the Venstians to part with ducats by the thousand in fact, they cut off Suleimar's messenger's head (see Clause 2, Treaty with Venice). France needed a breathing space, an aliance which would permit her to restore her power in the Mediterranean and to maintain her influence in the Levant by pacific means.

A noble historian assures that between the Ottoman Empire and France there could be no antagonism; they had com-mon interests, the same enemies, the same needs, the same hatred and, finally, they admired each other for their respective mili-tary valour. In December, 1525, after a false start six month earlier when another unfortunate messenger got it in the neck. Francis I proposed to Suleiman the Turk that he (Suleiman) attack Hungary, while he (Fran-cis) would attack Spain to distract the Emperor's attention, The latters exchanged on the subject between the two magnifi-cent monarche are models of the epistolatory style of two con-trasting cultures. The resulting attack on Hungary was, as we siready know, a model of military valour. This alliance, affirms our historian, was a singularly bold act which roused public feeling in the whole of Europe against the "sacrilegious union of the fewrde-lys and the croscent" and called down a storm of anathema on the French King's head. Nevertheless; "to bring down the House of Austria with the sid of the Ottomana was the constant policy of Brancis I and Me successors, a policy that saved. Europe from Austrian-Spanish despotian." Every schoolboy knows about Francis I and the Turks, but grown-ups forget. That promere passing fever. We should stop being cross with the French and instead indulge in the pleasure of finding their actions and opinions merely grotesque.
